Congress May Chop Billion Off of Fgn. Aid

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Presented with a presidential committee recommendation to tighten up the foreign aid program, Congress appears likely to respond by pulling in the purse strings to the extent of about $1 billion.

The signs on Capitol Hill indicate the program will be the main target of efforts to trim President Kennedy's $98.8-billion budget. Kennedy has asked for $4.9 billion in foreign aid for the year beginning July 1—$1 billion more than this year. Kennedy, however, is expected to send a message to Congress this week cutting back his aid request by $200 million or more.

But one high official remarked that the administration will be lucky to escape with a reduction of no more than $1 billion.

In a hard-hitting report the presidential committee—made up of 10 private citizens headed by Gen. Lucius Clay—told Kennedy the program was too big—trying to do "too much for too many." The report, made public Saturday evening, found that this year's $9.9-billion foreign aid program was overweight by half a billion dollars when weighed on the scales of the tougher new standards it was recommending.

This led to some interpretations that since the new foreign aid request is $1 billion higher than this year's program, the Clay committee was recommending it be chopped by $1.5 billion.

But William T. Dentzler, executive director of the Clay committee, said Sunday night this was not so.

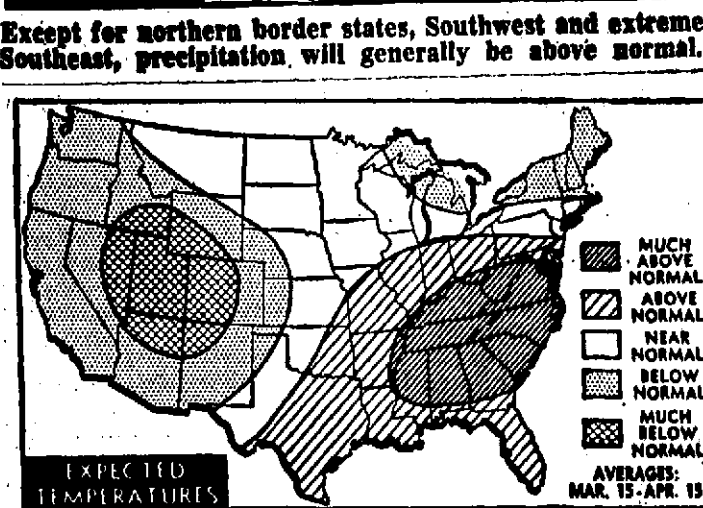

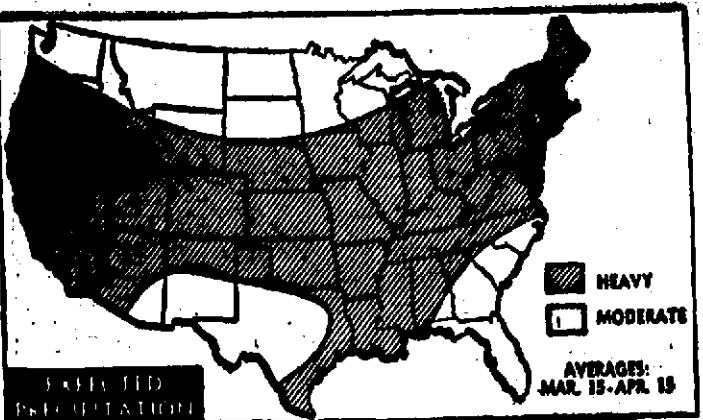

The committee, he said, was speaking of only this year's program, ending June 30, and not next year's. Also, he said, the report listed several new projects which it thought should be added.

The committee did not propose any immediate specific cuts. It urged, though, graduated future reductions, tightening of assistance criteria and reassessment of administration procedures and personnel.

These steps, it contended, were necessary to strengthen the program which the committee felt was essential to security of the United States and the non-Communist world.

The only committee member to dissent was AFL-CIO President George Meany. He said aid funds should be substantially increased. He complained the report might be disastrously used by critics of foreign aid.

Without reference to proposed reductions, Kennedy said in a statement that the report was "very heartening because of the committee's expression of support for properly administered mutual defense and development programs."

Death Hits Heavily in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Death hit heavily in Arkansas over the weekend, sending the state's violent death toll for the week ended midnight Sunday soaring to 22.

At midnight Friday the count was at 11.

Six-month-old Steve Eugene Hamm died suddenly at his home in Fort Smith, a day after his brother collapsed and died on a baseball field at Arkoma, Okla.

Billy Lee Hamm, 18, died while playing baseball.

Coroner J. D. McClary of Sebastian County said he did not believe the deaths were related. He said he had not determined cause of death in either case.

Herman Henry Bemberg Sr., 64, died Sunday in a Little Rock hospital and Pulaski County Coroner Dr. Howard Dishongh ruled the death a suicide.

Bemberg was found last Friday in the bathroom of his home. His wrists and throat had been cut. His wife, Helen, 63, was found dead in the home of suffocation. Dishongh said Mrs. Bemberg was murdered.

Harrison McLaughlin of near Dermott drowned in Grand Lake south of Eudora when his boat capsized Sunday.

Authorities said the 34-year-old McLaughlin was fishing with his brother. He apparently could not make it when he attempted to swim to shore.

A truck overturned Sunday, killing 52-year-old James Epperson on Princeton Pike, nine miles west of Pine Bluff.

Police said he apparently lost control of the pickup. He was pinned beneath the truck.

Also during the week, 10 other persons were killed in traffic accidents; two were killed when tractors overturned on them; four were shot to death; and one other drowned.

The State Department is as wide-open as Yankee Stadium and the admission is free," he added.

Manning said, however, that "there are moments when the interests of a government serving the people and a press informing the people do not coincide. Between the enunciation of a policy and the actions undertaken to carry out that policy, government must sometimes make a sharp distinction. Quite properly, journalism need not and frequently does not make that distinction."

Thunderstorms in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A brisk southerly wind blew showers and thunderstorms into Arkansas early today ahead of a cold front extending from the Great Lakes to West Texas.

A low pressure area with the cold front is centered over Iowa. As it moves northeast the cold front will reach into Arkansas, probably by Tuesday morning, the Weather Bureau said.

It should bring somewhat lower temperatures, but the mercury was expected to begin climbing again Wednesday.

A high pressure area following the front will be responsible for the higher temperatures and it should move into the state late Tuesday.

Overnight low temperatures around the state last night ranged from a 53 at Fort Smith to 62 at Little Rock and Pine Bluff.

Professor to Speak

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Vernon Eady of Denton, Tex., associate professor of psychology at North Texas State University and a former Army clinical psychologist, will be principal speaker at the spring conference of the Arkansas Association of Childhood Education in Little Rock next Saturday. Pentagon's News Policy Is Defended

WASHINGTON (AP)— Assistant Secretary of State Robert J. Manning said today it does not serve the government's purpose "to keep the public uninformed, or have it ill-informed by an ill-informed press."

Manning, the State Department's chief public information official, made the observation in testimony prepared for a House Government Operations subcommittee investigating administration news policies.

He and his counterpart at the Pentagon—Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester—reply today to allegations made to the subcommittee by some news industry leaders that the government has lied to Americans in times of cold war crisis and that this has undermined the people's faith in what the government says.

Manning, a former newspaperman, said that "while the American press and the American government share identical devotion to the cause of their country and its interests, the two do not—cannot—always share identical concepts of their functions or of their obligations to the public."

"While one seeks to serve the public by disclosure, the other may be serving a public need—and a public desire—by protecting a national policy from failure through premature disclosure."

Manning noted that the hearing stemmed from the committee's concern about the public's right to know, and declared "the business of American foreign policy is public business. Only a fraction of State Department business—perhaps no more than 1 per cent—is not immediately or imminently public."

The State Department is as wide-open as Yankee Stadium and the admission is free," he added.

Manning said, however, that "there are moments when the interests of a government serving the people and a press informing the people do not coincide. Between the enunciation of a policy and the actions undertaken to carry out that policy, government must sometimes make a sharp distinction. Quite properly, journalism need not and frequently does not make that distinction."

Death of Man Ruled a Suicide

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Herman Henry Bemberg Sr., 64, died Sunday in a Little Rock hospital and Pulaski County Coroner Dr. Howard A. Dishongh ruled the death a suicide.

Bemberg was found unconscious in the bathroom of his home here Friday with his throat and wrists cut. His wife, Helen, 63, was found dead in the home of suffocation. Dishongh ruled her death a homicide.

Police Cutback Could Spell a Special Session

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The cutback in State Police operation day was only a beginning, Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today.

The governor announced a drastic program of economy in the State Police Department which he said would include:

1. No vacancies will be filled.
2. No officers will be promoted.
3. Certain functions will be discontinued.
4. As many cars as possible will be taken out of service.
5. Criminal Investigation Work will be cut to the most essential matters.
6. Process serving by a state policeman will be discontinued.
7. Driver's license testing will be curtailed and some cities in which tests have been given twice a week will have them only once a week or more every two weeks.

"We intend to live within the State Police budget," Faubus said. "If the people and city and county officials that State Police have been helping want this service continued, then we've got to have more money. But we're not crying for more money. We can live within the budget."

Faubus said he has had very little reaction so far to the Friday announcement. "But I haven't been in a position to receive much comment up until now," he explained.

Faubus said that the cutdown was designed to get the agency within its budget during the current fiscal year and to prepare for meeting the budget for the next biennium, which starts July 1.

He said he intends to leave the pressure for more money for the State Police to others and he will not call a special legislative session of his own volition. If a special session is called, it will be on the call of the legislature.

Brazil to Get Millions From U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has agreed to lend Brazil $398.5 million to boost its economy, the Brazilian Embassy announced today.

The embassy released notes exchanged by Brazil's Finance Minister Francisco San Tiago Dantas and David Bell, director of the Agency for International Development.

The embassy announcement said the United States will provide $84 millions immediately.

The announcement came one hour before San Tiago Dantas was to call on President Kennedy to close officially his 15-day mission to rally U.S. support for Brazil's three-year recovery plan.

WATSON LAKE, Yukon Territory (AP)—A Canadian pilot has reported sighting a downed plane believed to be an aircraft missing since Feb. 4 with two Americans aboard on a flight over the Yukon.

Chuck Hamilton, piloting a B.C. Yukon Flying Services plane, said he saw two persons, one apparently a woman, near the plane on the slope of a 4,000-foot mountain about 75 miles southeast of Watson Lake, near the British Columbia border.

The missing plane, a single-engine Howard aircraft, was carrying pilot Ralph Flores of San Bruno, Calif., and his passenger, Helen Klobean, 21, of Brooklyn, N.Y., on a 600-mile flight from Whitehorse to Fort St. John, B.C. "All indications are that it is the Howard aircraft," said Hamilton.

"Oh, my God, I'm so happy," said Flores' wife in San Bruno. "We had the feeling all along that he would be found alive."

Flores and his wife have six children, the oldest 16-year-old twin daughters.

Hamilton said the wing of the aircraft was red and he was able to make out the number "N588." Canadian air force search officials said the missing plane bore the insignia "N58856."

Hamilton said the remainder of the plane was obscured and despite a number of low passes he could not make out further details. He said a campfire was burning near the aircraft. There was a person nearby.

"I felt that it was a woman," he said. "At first I thought it might be an Indian squaw. It was hard to tell."

The pilot said he spotted a man about four miles from the crash scene.

Hamilton said he landed at Aircraft Lake, about six miles from the scene. He met two trappers there and they left for the crash scene.

The pilot described the terrain as rough and "very bad for walking." He said the land is mountainous, with many knolls and gulches.

"There's a lot of ice and snow. And some open water in the creeks. It's pretty treacherous," Hamilton said.

Mrs. Flores said her husband went to the Yukon in October 1960 to work as a mechanic for a contractor on the DeWine, the U.S.-Canadian radar warning net. He had completed his contract and was flying home when his plane disappeared, she said.

Bulletin

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The U.S. Weather Bureau in Little Rock today issued the following tornado alert for northeast Arkansas:

Severe thunderstorms accompanied by a few tornadoes, large hail and damaging winds are expected 3 p.m. until 9 p.m. today in an area along and 60 miles either side of a line from 30 miles northwest of Cape Girardeau, Mo. to 25 miles east of Columbus, Miss.

This includes all of northeast Arkansas northeast of a line from West Memphis to Jonesboro.

Minor Held Responsible When Driving

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court held today that a minor assumes the responsibilities of an adult when he operates a motor vehicle.

The ruling came in a Pulaski County case in which a circuit court decision was affirmed.

In the case, Jesse Harrelson, father of Wayne Harrelson, 15, sued Nathan A. Whitehead for injuries suffered by the younger Harrelson when his motor bike collided with Whitehead's car.

Testimony was that young Harrelson was passing Whitehead's car on the right side and Whitehead made a right turn.

"As regards safety, we see no valid distinction between a vehicle driven by a minor and one driven by an inexperienced or reckless adult," the Supreme Court said.

Harrelson's attorneys contended that the lower court had erred in instructing the jury that Whitehead was not obliged to exercise extreme caution because young Harrelson was a minor.

The Supreme Court reversed and dismissed a Craighead County case which resulted from a traffic accident in which three were killed Dec. 24, 1960.

A circuit court jury awarded $44,065 to the estate of Mrs. Mavis Jean Smith and assessed negligence in the accident 50 per cent to the E. M. Spurlock estate, 25 per cent to the R. L. Palmer estate and 25 per cent to the Superior Forwarding Co. and Johnny Hunt, who were the appellants in the case.

The record showed that automobiles collided by Palmer and Spurlock driven and then a Superior Forwarding Co. truck driven by Hunt crashed into the wreckage.

Mrs. Smith was a passenger in the Spurlock car which was being followed by Hunt's truck. The evidence was that Palmer's car, coming from the opposite direction, crossed the center line and hit the Spurlock car.

The Supreme Court said the trial court should have directed a verdict dismissing the suit as it concerned Superior Forwarding Co. and Hunt on grounds that there was no evidence Hunt was negligent.

Justice Jim Johnson dissented from the majority opinion. He said there was enough evidence of negligence on Hunt's part to allow the matter to be submitted to a jury.

The Supreme Court ordered a new trial in a Pulaski Circuit Court case in which Gordon and Ferguson Inc. was awarded a $1,210 judgment against the Lafayette Hotel Co. because some sample clothing was stolen from a car driven by Joe Goldstein, a salesman.

The hotel appealed the case because the lower court told the jury that the burden was on the hotel to prove that it had shown due care in protecting the property rather than on the plaintiff to show negligence by the hotel.

The Supreme Court agreed with this view. Evidence was that Goldstein's car, which had been parked in a garage by a hotel employee, was broken into and the clothing stolen.

Says News Helps Crime Prevention

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Special Agent Roy K. Moore of the Little Rock office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation says the news media plays an important role in preventing crime by keeping the public informed.

Moore told members of the Arkansas Broadcasters Association Saturday that such agencies as the FBI had the responsibility of furnishing facts to news media while they still were new. He said publicity often acted as a preventative measure in combating crime.

Blair Vedder, a Chicago advertising executive also spoke at the association's spring meeting, which drew nearly 80 broadcasters and others in allied fields.

Hi Mayo of radio station KBRI in Brinkley presented a plaque to J. C. Willis of KVOM in Morrilton in recognition for his service as past president of the association.

Mayo, president of the organization, announced that the fall meeting would be held Sept. 6-7 in Little Rock.

2 Negroes Perish When Fire Razes Home Here Today

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a house on North Laurel Street early today and a Negro man and his son perished in the blaze. The house is located behind the Bruner Ivory Handle Co.

Dead are L. C. Bronson, about 40, and his son, Willie Ray Bronson, 21.

Firemen said the house was completely engulfed by the time they arrived. One body was found near the front door and the other near the back door. Apparently the victims were trying to get out but were overcome by the smoke and flame. They were the only occupants.

The firemen got the alarm about 1 a.m. There was no way of telling how the blaze started.

Following a full investigation Police Chief Brown said there was no evidence of foul play although one source in the neighborhood reportedly heard what was believed to be shots about the time of the fire. Mr. Brown said his investigation indicated the men were overcome trying to get out of the burning house.

Local firemen were called to the Sateway Store Saturday night but a sprinkler system had put out a linen closet by the time they arrived. The damage was not considered serious and the store is open for business as usual on Monday.

A Democrat Takes Over in Minnesota

By GALE TOLLIN

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Democrat Karl Fritjof Rolvaag is to take over today as the 31st governor of Minnesota, a somewhat bittersweet reward for persistence.

The four-year term to which he aspired in the election last Nov. 6 has shrunk to three years and nine months. Not until last Saturday did Republican Gov. Elmer L. Andersen concede defeat.

During the long weeks of a recount, Rolvaag sat in a drab basement office in the state Capitol. Upstairs, the Republican-dominated Legislature enacted laws and confirmed appointments by Andersen.

Many state departments are headed by Republicans. Only two key appointments are open to Rolvaag. A few department heads have indicated a willingness to resign. Others have said they don't intend to budge.

Rolvaag has told advisers he will demand the resignations of Tax Commissioner Roland F. Hatfield and Highway Commissioner James C. Marshall, Andersen appointees.

The Senate recently confirmed reappointment of Hatfield for a six-year term. Before his confirmation, he held a legislative committee he would not resign even if Rolvaag became governor and asked him to quit.

Marshall, a frequent target of Rolvaag criticism, is serving a four-year term that expires in April 1965. A retired Army general, Marshall has said he intends to complete his term.

Andersen has made many appointments, mostly of a minor nature—such as pharmacists and barbers named to state boards governing their professions.

Hatfield and three other major appointments have been confirmed by the Senate. They are William Joyce, liquor control commissioner; Lawrence McCabe, aeronautics commissioner, and Gerald Bryan, banking commissioner. To force these men to resign, Rolvaag would have to prove malfeasance or nonfeasance.

Rolvaag has told associates he intends to be cooperative and conciliatory with Republicans in state office and the legislature. His middle name, Fritjof, translates from Norwegian as "Peacemaker."

Minnesota legislators are elected on a nonpartisan ballot but those caucusing as Conservatives generally are Republicans. Liberals are Democrats. Conservatives control both houses of the legislature.

Rolvaag, 49, said he doesn't fear working with a Republican-dominated legislature. As lieutenant governor from 1954 until the end of 1961, he presided over the conservative Senate.

Conviction of Contempt Is Overturned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court overturned today the contempt conviction of Theodore R. Gibson, onetime head of the Miami, Fla., branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Gibson was convicted for refusing to produce a list of association members for a hearing by a committee of the Florida Legislature. He was sentenced to six months and fined $1,000.

Justice Goldberg delivered the high court's 5-4 decision throwing out the conviction.

Justice Harlan dissented with an opinion in which Justices Stewart, Clark and White joined.

In the 1959 hearing, the Florida legislative committee was looking into possible Communist infiltration of NAACP.

An investigator for the committee named 14 persons as members of the Communist party and said they had taken part in NAACP affairs.

Gibson then was asked to take the Miami membership list to a committee hearing, refer to it, and state if any of the 14 were NAACP members. He was told he would not be required to submit the entire list in evidence, where it would be open to public inspection.

Gibson based his refusal on the Constitution's guarantee of freedom of association.

Goldberg's majority opinion for the Supreme Court said that the Florida committee did not have sufficient justification for including the Miami branch of NAACP in its investigation.

Goldberg in a 19-page opinion, gave a lengthy summary of the evidence in the case and said it disclosed "the utter failure to demonstrate the existence of any substantial relationship between the NAACP and subversive or Communist activity."

Happenings Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) —In the news from Washington:

SOVIET SUBS: Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, is confident the Navy tracked down and if necessary "would have killed" every Soviet submarine which came near Cuba during last October's crisis.

The Navy made about 20 sightings of Soviet submarines while covering the 3.5 million square miles in the quarantine area.

The subs were not nuclear-powered and did not carry surface-to-surface missiles, Anderson said in a television interview.

"We have not seen or have any knowledge that the Russians have deployed any missile-carrying submarines close to or even in banar port of the hemisphere," admiral said.

MANAGER: There's a likelihood that Stephen E. Smith, the President's brother-in-law, will head the Kennedy re-election campaign staff next year.

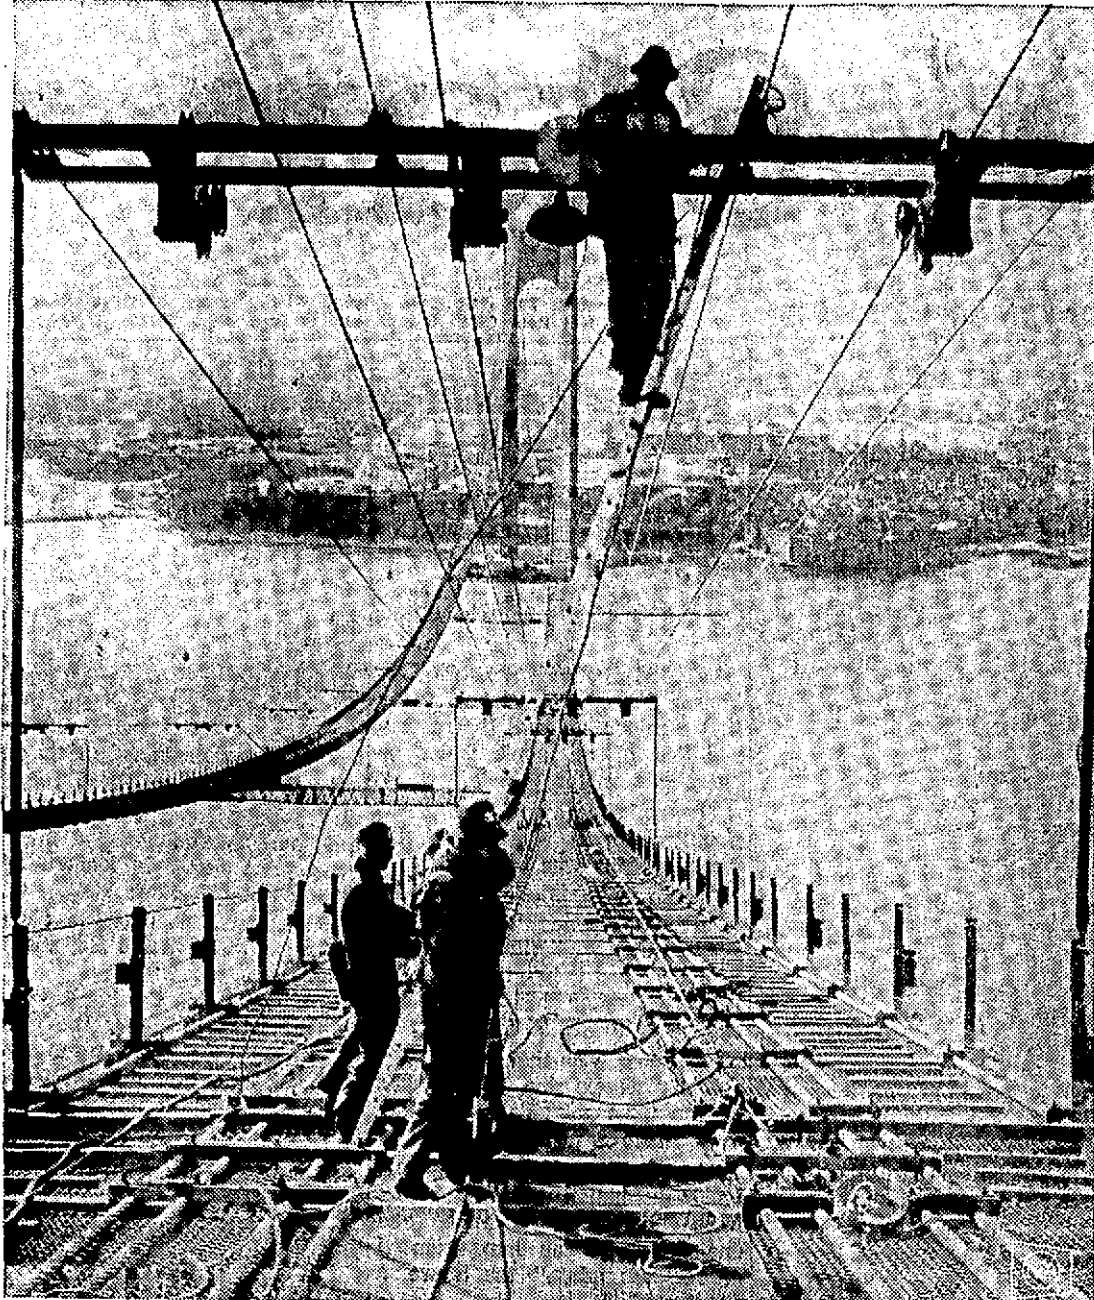

While many administration leaders expect the campaign to be run officially by Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey, they say he would welcome Smith as the President's man in the campaign since Smith has entree to the White House and close contacts with Kennedy.

Smith, married to the President's sister Jean, assisted in the 1960 Kennedy campaign and last year helped Edward M. Kennedy get elected to the U.S. Senate. He now spends about three days a week in an office in the national committee headquarters and presently is engaged in trying to establish party unity in New York.

DISILLUSIONED: John Santo, a former U.S. Communist leader who, after seven years as a government official in his native Hungary, fled back to the West, has unfolded a bitter tale of his disillusionment with communism. Santo told about it in testimony, made public Saturday, to the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

After telling how rigged trials, torture, the invisible government of secret police and sweatshop labor conditions played a part in his break with communism, he summed it up this way:

"If it is desired to put the answer in a nutshell, it is the contradiction between the shining beauty of the theory of communism and what it is in practice as a bestial, corrupt, retrogressive way of life, as a system of government of false morality, perverted ethics, wasteful economy and politics of horror and torture for the working people."

Court Asked to Pick a Sheriff

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court has been asked to decide who is the legal sheriff of Marion County.

Jack Pace of Yellville, who lost to George Hickey in the November general election, appealed to the high court a Marion Circuit Court decision declaring Hickey sheriff.

Hickey has been serving as sheriff since the circuit court ruling last February. Hickey, a write-in candidate, beat the incumbent Pace by 83 votes in the first count and by eight votes after a recount requested by Pace.

Pace then challenged the "past-in" votes that gave Hickey the margin of victory and Special County Judge William Madden of Yellville declared them illegal.

Circuit Judge Woody Murray of Harrison overturned the ruling on an appeal by Hickey.

Owes Feat to Borrowed Glass Pole

By DAVID INMAN
MONROE, La. (AP)—John Pennel, who raised the world pole vault record to 16 feet, 3 inches, today owes his success to a borrowed fiberglass pole and movies.

The 22-year-old Northeast Louisiana State senior cleared the height with room to spare on his second attempt at the Memphis Relays Saturday. Pennel made three unsuccessful attempts at 16-7. He barely brushed off the bar with his chest once.

His record vault was one-half inch higher than the world outdoor mark set last June by Penn-ti Nikula of Finland.

Other vaults have gone higher indoors—Nikula has done 16-8—but such marks are not recognized as world marks because only the United States has extensive indoor competition. Pennel of Miami, Fla., said he broke his favorite pole in practice. He and his coach were unable to find another fiberglass pole of the same weight.

At the last minute, Pennel said they called Rice University and borrowed one. He had time to work out with it only once.

Pennel said Tommy Edmondson, another Northeast vaulter, took movies of him. Pennel noticed he was knocking the bar off because he wasn't getting his feet high enough into the air.

He started changing his style—"rocking back more on takeoffs."

Insurance Law Evaluation

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—State Insurance Commissioner Harvey Combs says there is no way of anticipating how much Gov. Orval E. Faubus' insurance investment law will mean in additional revenues for the state because there are no compiled figures on the total insurance reserves in the state.

The law, passed by the 1963 legislature and signed by Faubus, levies a 1/2 of 1 per cent tax increase on out-of-state insurance companies which do not invest in Arkansas 50 per cent of the reserves in their Arkansas policies accruing after Jan. 1, 1963.

Combs said insurance companies doing business in the state paid more than $4.6 million in premium taxes for 1962, compared to more than $4.3 million for 1961.

Church-State Controversy Is Raging

By WICK TEMPLE

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A country preacher whose sermons departed from the fundamentalist doctrines of his faith has stirred a church-state controversy over where religious beliefs and property rights collide.

The Arkansas Supreme Court removed Elder A. Z. Dovers from the pulpit of the Landmark Missionary Baptist Church at Traskwood, Ark., because he preached that a saved soul can fall from grace.

The court said that in self-governing churches such as Landmark, property rights and not majority beliefs are fundamental to law and those who followed the beliefs of the church founders have property rights.

The minister has asked the court for a rehearing.

Dovers was attacked by a minority of his congregation of 100 for preaching doctrines they considered heretical. According to the "once saved, always saved" doctrine of the Missionary Baptists, one who has undergone true religious conversion cannot sin and therefore cannot fall from grace. Dovers called this reasoning "sophistry" and declared that saved souls can slip back into sin and must repent.

His preaching set off a brush fire of controversy in Traskwood, a crossroads community of 205 persons some 35 miles southwest of Little Rock.

A motion was made in church to remove Dovers as pastor, but the congregation voted 54-47 to retain him. The minority walked out of the 56-year-old white frame church and set up services in a general store a stone's throw away.

Then they filed suit in a county court, which ruled for Dovers. On appeal, the state Supreme Court reversed the ruling and restrained Dovers from acting as pastor of the church.

The decision earlier this month brought a furor of controversy between Arkansas' two leading Baptist factions. The state Missionary Baptist Association hailed the court for protecting minority rights. Nine of its ministers testified for the minority in the case. But the state's Southern Baptist

What I really want to do is get down to 128 pounds, which would be just right for my 5-foot-2 height.

My husband calls me at least twice every day, and when I told him my new measurements—55½ hips, 44 waist and 49 bust—he said: "Honey, that's wonderful. Keep it up. I know you can, and I love you."

He's a wonderful man. Slender, not like me, and with white hair at 45 he's very distinguished-looking. I started this fast because I wanted a new dress for Easter. I want to be down to at least a size 20½. That way I can find something with a little color in it, not those drab blacks that you get in size 24½.

I know I'll get a new dress now—my husband Arthur has already promised it to me.

The doctor told me the first 48 hours would be the hardest, that after that my stomach would shrink and there wouldn't be any hunger pangs.

I've found, however, that it is all I have had is coffee, tea and bouillon. I have coffee at 8 a.m. with no cream or sugar, just a little saccharine. Then iced tea at noon and coffee again at 4 p.m.

The closest thing to food I have is bouillon, at 7 p.m.

My worst time of all came with the bouillon, last Tuesday night. The waiter who brought up my tray made a mistake—there was a big plate of crackers on it.

"That's not my tray," I told him. "Get it out of here. Get it out of here."

ists, whose views generally are not so fundamental, charged that the state was interfering in church matters and that the majority of the congregation should rule.

The state Southern Baptist publication said the court could not hold that a church must abide by its doctrines.

The court said it had jurisdiction because property rights were involved and because the independent church has no hierarchy to which to appeal.

The court said it knew of no ruling in which majority members of a church were given authority to use the church for any purpose they wished.

Justice George Rose Smith said, in writing the 6-1 majority opinion, that the court had no concern with theological differences, "but the vital point is that the majority are not entitled to devote the property to a faith contrary to that for which it was dedicated."

The lone dissenter, Justice Ed McFaddin said the majority should rule.

Dovers, 36, a former car salesman and service station operator, has been at Traskwood five years. His three children attend a rural school across the street from the church. He asked the court to reconsider its decision but said he would not appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court because he did not believe church matters should be taken to court.

Finds Diamond at Murfreesboro

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Fred Wood, a sawmill planer operator from Chidester, found a 10.40 carat diamond at the Crater of Diamonds here Saturday and the American Diamond Association said it probably was worth $8,000 to $8,500.

He said he picked up three or four stones that looked valuable and took them to J. R. Johnston, operator of the mine.

Johnston said he called Norton Zimmerman of the association in Chicago and described the diamond to him. Zimmerman, who will cut the stone, said it probably would cut to about five carats.

Wood said he goes three or four times a year to the mine to look for diamonds. Any stones found at the mine belong to the finder, who pays $1 for the privilege of hunting them.

JFK's Sister to Visit Arkansas

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. R. Sargent Shriver, sister of President Kennedy and a nationally-known worker in the field of mental retardation, will address the Arkansas Association for Retarded Children during its sixth annual meeting May 4-5 in Conway.

Mrs. Shriver, whose husband is director of the Peace Corps, is a consultant to the president's panel on mental retardation.

Dr. John J. Noon Jr. of the National Institute of Mental Health also will be on the program.

He will not be formally ousted until the court acts on his petition for rehearing.

The winning side in the case also asked for a rehearing in which it wants the court to complete its handling of the case by enjoining the majority faction from taking control of the church.

What is next for Dovers?

"By the grace of God," he said. "I am determined to preach the word of God anywhere, anytime that I can get an audience to listen."

cial session is called, Faubus said, he would try to keep the legislature from providing more money for State Police from general revenues and "I wouldn't want to take any funds from highway revenues either." This indicated he will push again for increasing the driver's license fee from $2 to $3 a year.

This would raise about $800,000 a year for the State Police. A driver's license increase bill passed the Senate in the recent regular session but was withdrawn in the face of determined opposition in the House.

Faubus would not say definitely, however, that he would go for the driver's license increase. He said that the State Police Commission, which adopted the curtailment at a March 15 meeting, did not announce it immediately because it wanted to

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Although it also results in new jobs, automation is now displacing jobs. It is estimated the U. S. work force will increase from 74 million in 1960 to 87 million in 1970.

Those now having the hardest time finding jobs are boys under 20 who didn't finish high school, and those over 45 who haven't kept pace with new skills.

DOROTHY DIX

COMMON LAW WIFE CLOUDS

WEDDING FESTIVITIES

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I have two sons by a former marriage; the oldest 22, the youngest 16. My first husband and I divorced when the older boy was 10, and while I have worked most of the time to help out with family finances, my second husband has been our main support. He is a very hard man in one sense, but good at heart and means well despite his gruff ways. However, the boys resent him, possibly because he was so strict with them as youngsters. The older one went into the service at 17, completed his tour of duty last year and came home to live but he and his stepfather just didn't get along.

Now, thank God, the boy has a wonderful job, is engaged to marry a fine girl and everything is going well. Through her influence he has changed completely in regard to his stepfather and they have become great pals. Which brings me to our problem. Our future in-laws are giving a big engagement party and an even bigger wedding reception for their daughter and our son. He would like to have his natural father as well as us there. My first husband refuses to come without his common-law wife and her two sons by a former marriage.

She is a very sweet woman but there is this question of her social status, for at both parties the bride's father and mother plan an introduction ceremony at which the two sets of parents are to be introduced individually to the guests with a special little speech for each.

We are all in a quandary as to how to introduce the common-law wife. My husband is having a fit and feels that she should not be included in the ceremony. I am reluctant to hurt my son or cause him any unhappiness. Would it be proper to introduce us as parents of the groom and Mr. and Mrs. — as father of my son your answer. —Betuddled Mother

Dear Betuddled: I appreciate the emotional tenseness which this situation involves but from both a social and realistic standpoint, neither your present husband nor your former husband's common-law wife have a right to be formally presented as the groom's parents.

Their natural parents—even though divorced—should be singled out for the special introductions. Incidentally, go prepared to make a little speech since responses are all part of such a ceremony.

If you are accustomed to thinking on your feet, well and good. If not, take a short course

WEDDING FESTIVITIES

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I'm a miserable, motherless teen-ager whose father is always drunk. He hated my mother and because I remind him of her, loathes the sight of me. I do all the housecleaning, cooking and shopping, plus my homework. We have barely enough money to keep us going. Sometimes I earn a little extra babysitting. I've thought of moving to my aunt's but I know my father needs me so stay on. Am I right or wrong? — Worried One

Dear Worried: You are right in sticking by your father, however wretched conditions may be. But you should have help with the housework. Could your aunt lend a hand?

Your father's drinking is a problem by itself. Again you need the help of older people. Check in the telephone directory for the address of the nearest local branch of Alcoholics Anonymous. See who ever is in charge, explain the situation and ask what you can do about your father.

You might also talk to the doctor who treated your mother in her last illness. The more action you take the more help you will get.

Follow the advice in that old Quaker proverb, "When you pray, move your feet," which is just another way of saying, "The Lord helps those who help themselves." Look upon this unhappy present as a test of character. Above all, don't give up. There is always a way out, provided you seek it.

Dear Helen: Is it true that if you really like someone you can learn to love them? There was a boy of 24 who loved me; bought me everything I wanted and treated me like a queen but somehow, though I liked him very much, I couldn't bring myself to

Dr. Anders' Dilemma

By Henry and Sylvia Lieferant

Copyright © 1958 by Henry Lieferant

Chapter XXXI

In fresh whites, he reported to Ward C just as the nurses were shifting, two hours earlier than his usual time. Miss Peters had just returned. She had only had a cold, after all, and she was pale but ready for work.

"Horton's on the sick list, Dr.

Anders. We'll be short-handed."

"She's sick?" he repeated.

"Unfortunately, there's no law sparing doctors and nurses. It seems she's been feeling pretty low for a week."

David stood transfixed. A patient had once described to him the sensations which came with internal bleeding. He understood now — he felt as if he was bleeding inside.

It was eight o'clock at night before he found a moment's leisure, and since Miss Brangwyn was the first person in authority to cross his path, he inquired of her.

"She's a pretty sick girl, Dr.

Anders. We'll try to get you relieved tomorrow."

"Pneumonia?" he asked in a dead voice.

"I'm afraid so, but we'll know definitely tomorrow. The infirmity was so crowded, we put her in a private room — 1621. Miss

Donovan's looking after her."

He knocked at 1621. Miss Bessie Donovan slid out of the room and closed the door behind her.

David didn't care what Miss Donovan would think.

"I'd like to get a look at Miss Horton."

"Dr. Gross is assigned to the case."

"He won't mind, Miss Donovan.

"I'll settle it with him."

"I'm sorry, Dr. Anders," she said firmly. "The patient requested that under no circumstances should he be allowed into the room. Probably you understand. I can't have my patient upset."

He did not understand how he could possibly upset Nancy by his presence. He loved her. He meant to force his way in, and he spoke to Miss Donovan in a tone he had never before used to a nurse.

"I doubt if you have the right to keep a doctor out of a patient's room, Miss Donovan."

Bessie Donovan was of medium height and slight build, but not fragile. She stood very straight, and her manner was pleasant but utterly uncompromising. "When the doctor is in charge, I have no right. But you're only a visitor,

Dr. Anders. I'm convinced you're not good for my patient, and I have every right to exclude you."

"I'm sorry," David apologized.

It's important to me to know something about her."

"Would you like to see her now?"

"Yes, please."

"All right, Dr. Anders. I'll take you to her room."

David followed Bessie Donovan down the hall. He was aware of the cool, sterile atmosphere of the hospital. He felt a little nervous as he approached the door of room 1621. He knocked, and was admitted. He found Nancy

Horton lying in bed, looking very pale. She was propped up on one elbow, and she looked at him with a questioning expression. "What's the matter,

Dr. Anders?"

"I've come to see you."

"Oh, Dr. Anders, I'm so glad to see you. I've been feeling awful. I don't know what's happening to me. I feel like I am dying."

Loyola Pulls Upset Over Cincinnati

By DON WEISS

Associated Press Sports Writer LOUISVILLE (AP) — Memo to the nation's college basketball coaches:

If you want to win the national collegiate championship, take two preliminary steps: 1. Play well, but not quite well enough to earn the No. 1 rating. 2. Coach well, but not quite impressively enough to be named Coach of the Year.

That's what George Ireland and the Loyola of Chicago Ramblers did.

Loyola's heart-thumping 60-50 overtime victory over two-year champion Cincinnati Saturday night extended the failure of the nation's top-ranking teams (six straight years).

Not since unbeaten North Carolina survived a triple overtime battle with second-ranked Kansas in the classic finals of 1957 has the No. 1 ranked team wound up with the championship.

Now third-ranked Loyola has the crown in a season when Cincinnati was the overwhelming choice from start to finish.

If that doesn't indicate enough of a jinx, then figure this. In both 1961 and 1962, Ohio State's Fred Taylor had already made his thank-you speech as Coach of the Year when Cincinnati and Ed Jucker knocked him away from the championship. This time, the voters took the hint. Jucker is the Coach of the Year and Ireland of Loyola is the champ.

It has got to the stage where the stock picture in the championship dressing room is a group shot of the various lesser-ranked teams pointing to the ceiling yelling: "We're No. 1," while the kids and the coach who were so ranked uttered something like: "That's basketball."

It was all of that last weekend here at Freedom Hall when a tap-in by 6-foot-6 Vic Rouse as time ran out brought the Loyola Ramblers their first national championship in their first NCAA appearance.

While Coach of the Year Jucker fidgeted on the bench and his team of the year stalled on the court, Loyola overcame a 15-point deficit and sent the exciting battle into overtime on a 10-foot jump shot by All-America Jerry Harkness. The Ramblers won it on Rouse's follow to a jumper by Les Hunter with one second remaining in the extra period.

Ireland had this observation: "It's a great thing for basketball when peasants like us can win the national championship. It should give the other peasants a lift."

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — Holger Doran 'Happy' Paulson, 75, widely known retired editor of the Fargo Forum, died Sunday. Paulson started his newspaper career at the age of 15 with the old Grand Forks (N.D.) Plain Dealer and joined the Forum in 1916. He served as editor from 1921 until he retired in 1957.

NEW YORK (AP) — Russ H. Kress, 85, former president of the S. H. Kress & Co. and head of the Kress Foundation that had given away $30 million worth of art treasures, died Friday after an illness of several months. He was born in Slatington, Pa.

NEW YORK (AP) — Doris Stevens, 70, who spent her life fighting for equal rights for women, died Friday two weeks after suffering a stroke. She was married twice, first to the late noted attorney Dudley Field Malone and the second time to writer Jonathan Mitchell. She was born in Omaha, Neb.

LISBON (AP) — Pedro de Freitas Branco, 67, former director of the Portuguese Symphonic Orchestra, died Sunday.

hours and confined it to the one-story structure. The bowling alley was located in a shopping center.

A supermarket was on one side of the establishment and a laundry and dry cleaning business was on the other side. Both sustained smoke damage.

Prewitt said employees had been rescuing the pin deck area at the rear of the building, but had left about 30 minutes before the fire started.

The fire started in the rear of the building, he said. Fire Chief J. W. Taylor said the fire had already destroyed three-fourths of the building when firemen arrived.

Photograph Shows Static Explosion Inside Camera

—Contax Photo, Alex H. Washburn of static electricity inside a camera. The photo was taken at the last home basketball game, Feb. 22, when Hope defeated Fairview of Camden 67-55, and was published as a 4-column plate Monday, Feb. 25. Jack Russell (34), in background, has fired a pass to Earl Ray Murphy (12). The forked lightning of the static discharge, just to the left of Murphy, was cut out of the published picture Feb. 25.

THE EDITOR AND JOHN HARRIE OF SHIPLEY STUDIO correctly identified the blemish as due to a static discharge, and the negative and print were sent in to Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester, N.Y., for verification. In letters dated March 5 and 18 Eastman sustained the local diagnosis.

EASTMAN'S MANUFACTURING DIVISION WROTE ON March 18:

"OUR ANALYSIS INDICATES THE MARKINGS ACROSS the film are definitely static which occurred on the emulsion surface and was undoubtedly from some part of the camera. Usually, static of this type occurs from a roller when the film is under pressure and at low relative humidity."

ONLY ONE OF 17 35MM. "FRAMES" WAS SO MARKED. And the editor discovered, afterward, that the Contax camera he used had become heavily magnetized. But Eastman's engineers reported: "The consensus is that the magnetized camera has nothing to do with the static discharge." Eastman disclosed that Tri-X film manufactured since that which the editor used for this picture is being supplied with an anti-static backing, which curbs but still doesn't eliminate all of the static hazard."

Fighter Davey Moore Dies of Brain Damage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Davey Moore, a colorful ring champion for nearly four years, died today of injuries received in the fight last Thursday that cost him his world featherweight title.

Moore lapsed into a coma shortly after his bout with Sugar Ramos and never regained consciousness.

Moore's wife, Geraldine, 26, had maintained a bedside vigil in the hospital much of the time. She had become exhausted and was resting in a nearby room when death came at 2:20 a.m.

A hospital bulletin said only doctors and nurses were present when the fighter succumbed to brain damage.

Ironically, Moore, 29, gave up his title—and his life—in the city of his greatest triumph. It was here that he won the featherweight crown from Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria in 1959.

Ramos, the new champion, sobbed in an apologetic meeting with Mrs. Moore Sunday. The Cuban-born boxer, a Mexico City resident, told Mrs. Moore how sorry he was and said that he was "praying every night" for the recovery of his opponent in the tragic bout.

Mrs. Moore expressed confidence that her husband would be all right.

A late evening bulletin from the doctors seemed to give her added reason for hope. Moore's pulse, temperature and blood pressure all had shown improvement.

But the fighter's condition worsened during the night. The first bulletin of the morning said Moore's pulse was irregular and described his general condition as

Sunday Pope John XXIII called the sport of boxing barbaric and "contrary to natural principles." At Lenten services in Ostia, Italy, the pontiff declared: "Christ engaged in neither boxing nor politics."

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown has expressed similar opposition to the sport and has called for its banishment in the state.
